OUTSTANDING COED

GAIL ESTELLE GRITTER
WACO, TEXAS

Top graduate in the 1959 graduating class of the University, Gail Gritter also won the Lambda Sigma Lambda award given annually to the outstanding coed leader on the campus.

Gail, a journalism graduate, also won the Harry McEnerny Award as the top student in journalism.

She served as editor of The Maroon during her senior year and won the All-American honor award during both semesters.

OUTSTANDING MALE STUDENT

Jerry Hoskins, who studied physics at Loyola, was voted the outstanding male student on the campus and received the Charles H. Bailey Memorial Award for that distinction.

Hoskins also served as president of the Student Council during his senior year and also participated with honors in many other organizations.

AWARDS

Top journalism graduate, Gail Gritter of Waco, Texas, receives the Harry McEnerny Award from the Rev. Edward A. Doyle, S.J., dean of the college of arts and sciences.

ATHLETIC AWARDS 1958

The Rev. James J. Molloy, S.J., gets a hearty handshake from Loyola's president, the Very Rev. W. Patrick Donnelly, S.J., on his retirement as the Wolfpack's athletic director. Father Molloy was transferred to another post in Florida.

Cager Larry Henneberger looks over the Dean's Trophy which he copped at the athletic banquet. Father Edward A. Doyle, S.J., left, made presentation.

WELCOME TO A NEW COACH

Coach Bill Gardiner, formerly of Spring Hill College in Mobile, was welcomed as new coach and athletic director of Loyola at the university's annual athletic banquet in May.

Gardiner succeeded Hank Kuzma and will be head basketball coach.

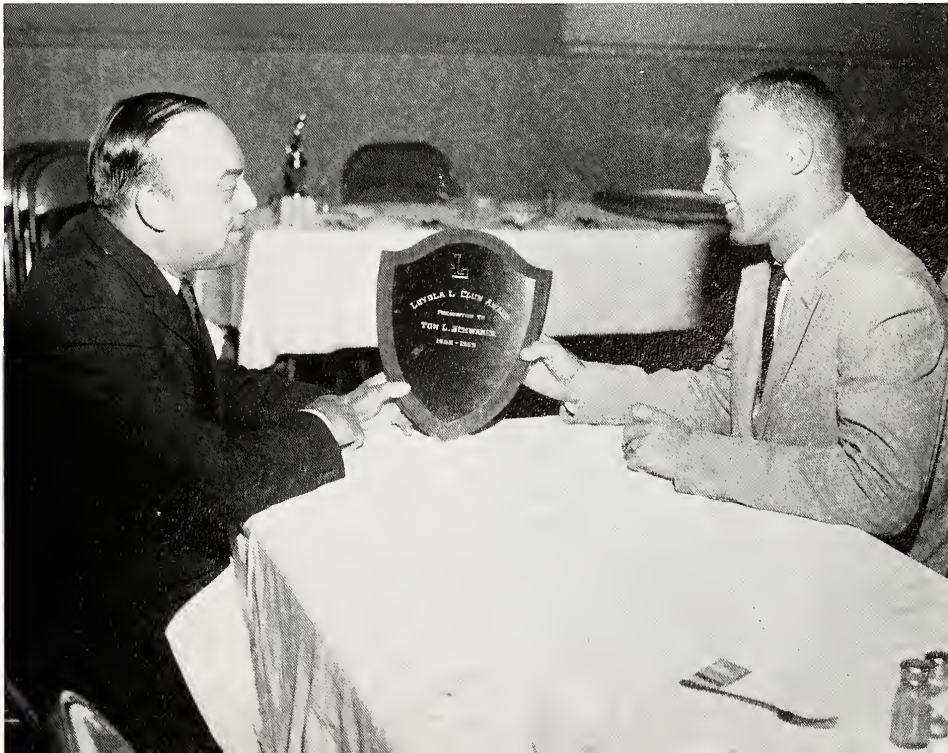
While at Spring Hill, Gardiner's teams managed to beat the Wolfpack on many occasions.

His comment at the banquet: "I came to stay." (Loyola has had three coaches in three years.)

The Wolfpack's new coach and athletic director gets a welcome from the city of New Orleans. Richie Dixon, mayor's aide, presents new coach with a key to the city and a certificate of greeting.

AWARD WINNER

Emmett Toppino, right, the Wolfpack's former great sprinter and president of the "L" Club, presents the "L" Club trophy to star baseballer Tommy Schwaner. Schwaner signed for $50,000 at the end of the season. The St. Louie Cards got him.



ATHLETICS

Gentlemanly, scholarly Larry Henneberger received the dean's award for outstanding scholastic achievement during the past year.

A junior, Henneberger is a native of Princeton, Indiana, and was one of the Wolfpack's better cagers last season.

The Dedication

A JESUIT 50 YEARS

THE Rev. Karl A. Maring, S. J., former chairman of the university's physics department and now a professor of physics, has been a Jesuit for 50 years. Some 26 years were spent here at Loyola. He has been a faculty member since 1932. Under his careful direction the physics department at Loyola grew from a combined department of physics and mathematics to a most extensive and well-renowned program. A friend as well as a teacher to his students, Father Maring always finds time for a smile and a friendly word. Father Maring also has served on the faculty committee on athletics and has been a devoted sports fan all of his life.

MR. LOYOLA HIMSELF

DR. John G. Arnold, beloved "Doc" of the Loyola campus, organized the department of medical technology at Loyola in 1935. In his 25 years of service to the university he has held the varied positions of professor of biology, chairman of the department of biology and medical technology and faculty advisor for pre-medical and pre-dental students. Presently, he is chairman of Loyola's medical technology department. His wonderful personality and effervescent spirit . . . his readiness to help students in any possibile way . . . his ability to laugh and joke . . . his ready smile . . . these are what endear "Doc" to Loyolans. During November he was honored at a testimonial dinner sponsored by Blue Key fraternity, a group he moderated for many years. More than 400 persons came out to honor Loyola's lay educator.

Loyola University

Loyola is many things. It is the students who seek knowledge; the profs who seek to appropriate it. It is the class lecture, the many campus organizations, the dances, the athletic events, mid-semester and final exams, the cafeteria, the library, the magnificent emerald lawn with the statue of the Sacred Heart beckoning out to those who choose to study here. It is the Maroon, the Wolf, the ROTC, the deans, the Thespian productions, Campus Capers.

It is fun and it is work. The 1958-59 school year has been all of this and more too. The last meeting of your favorite frat or club has been held for this academic year; homecoming is now behind you; and school is over for the summer.

Yes, Loyola is many things. You have lived here, studied here, had a little fun here, perhaps a little sadness too. But it has been a year you will want to remember for the rest of your life. But, perhaps, your memory will not suffice in years to come. But the staff of the Wolf believe that this yearbook will. We trust that you agree.

It's On The House, Fellas!

ARTS AND SCIENCES FRESHMEN . . .

The Hazing, the Wait in the Book Store, the Frosh Beanies . . . and other others! . . .

The Freshman—New to college life, of course, but still a vital member of the campus' society. Remember . . . the Jambalaya Party, the hazing in the cafeteria, the "name-calling," . . . your first date with a college guy or gal . . . your first college dance . . . your first lecture in English . . . in Mathematics . . . your first Maroon . . . a quick trip to the Barber Shop . . . Coffee (ugh!) in the cafeteria . . . your first basketball game . . . your first exam . . . a passing grade . . . final exams . . . the first boxing tourney . . . Homecoming . . . Talent Night. Those are the "days" to remember.

BEAUTY . . .

There is always room for beauty: Memory
A myriad lovely blossoms may enclose,
But, whatsoe'er hath been, there still must be
Room for another rose.

FLORENCE EARLE COATES

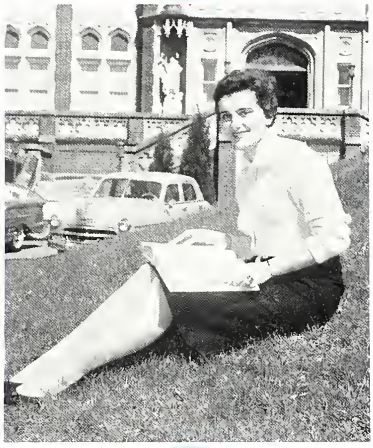
1958-59 Campus Queen
CAMILLE TAMBORELLO

THE QUEEN
THE CROWN
THE COURT

THE QUEEN

Add five feet and six inches to brown eyes with a Texan label and you have "Queen Camille Tamborello" of course. The 21-year old Houston lass holds the titles of Little Colonel, Sweetheart of ADG, student council representative, and treasurer of Tri Phi social sorority. An elementary education major, Camille finds time for those extracurricular activities as tennis and dancing. One thing is for sure . . . they didn't train teachers like her 10 years ago.

Vim, vigor and vitality together with an array of beauty and charm, Yvonne Boening lent an illuminating light to the campus court. Deep from the heart of Galveston, Texas, Yvonne was an example of the Freshman's good taste when she appeared in the "sweetheart" spotlight last year. This year again she was a unanimous choice as the best dressed coed to represent Loyola in Glamor magazine's annual contest. Showing her vivacious qualities the young music major is President of Phi Theta Alpha, national social sorority and chairman of the Pan Hellenic Council.

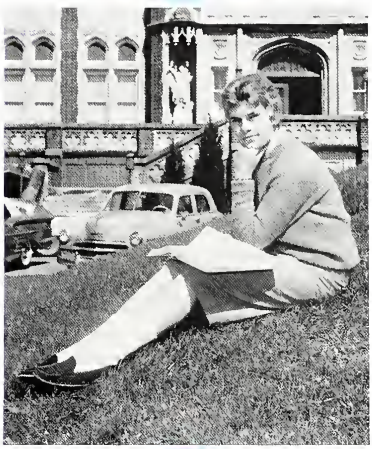


Maid, Politician, Sweetheart and Beauty . . . all are exemplified in the blue-eyed Maria Cicero. A vivacious brownette, Maria holds three titles this year . . . that of campus court maid, Pershing Rifle sponsor, and the Sweetheart of Sigma Alpha Kappa, social fraternity. A secondary-education major, she is an A&S sophomore representative to the student council and secretary-treasurer of Le Cercle Francais as well as social chairman of Phi Theta Alpha, social sorority.

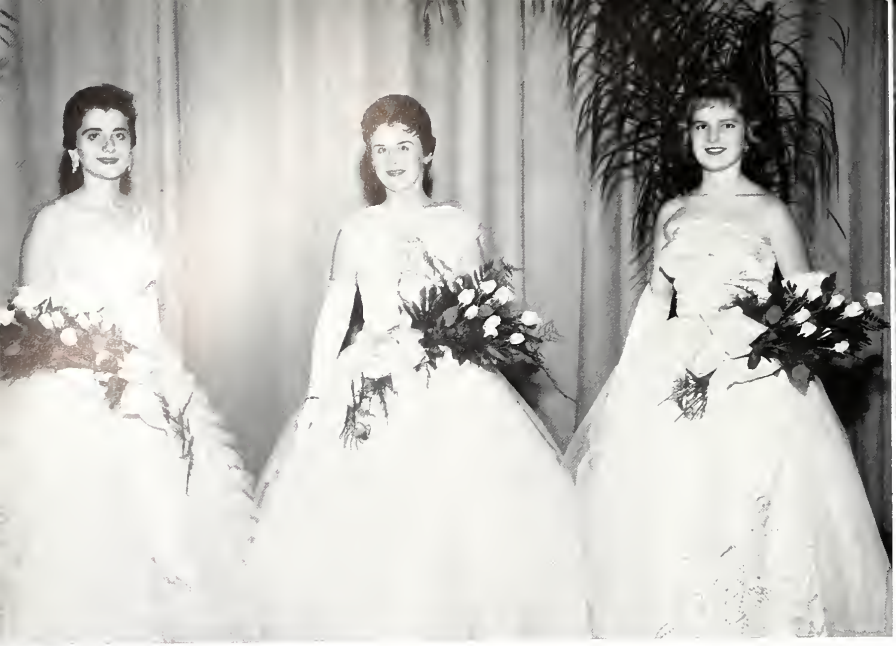
Black haired, blue-eyed and "cute" as a speckled "pup" is Patricia Galivian, the evening division's gal of the year. Presently working at Fitzgerald Advertising agency, Pat studied two and a half years in day school before switching to the evening division to pursue a bachelor of commercial science in accounting. A graduate of Annunciation High, the 5'4" Pat is a native of New Orleans and her favorite pastime is to "trip the light fantastic" with her fiance.

As effervescent as a sparkling bottle of 7-up is the personable Helen Gubbles, another Tex. miss gracing this year's campus court. The blue-eyed 5'4" Helen is presently pursuing a degree in music therapy and has as her hobbies "sports 'n stuff." Really stuck on fencing and batty over tennis, Helen is a member of Tri Phi, social sorority, the university chorus and the St. Cecilia Sodality. Brown-haired Helen who is a native of Rosenburg, Tex., says she's wild about New Orleans, "exceptin' for the humidity."

"Gentlemen prefer blondes" and in this case her name is Marie Olivier, better known on campus as "Mizie." This 5'5" coed cutie added a refreshing touch to this year's campus court and a twinkle to the eye of every Loyola male as he cast his vote for the campus' loveliest. An elementary-education major and a member of Tri Phi social sorority, she says she is a great "swimming and water skiing enthusiast" and revels in the wide outdoors.



A fairer maiden there was never . . . never, that is, until the probing spotlight flashed upon Ruby Reed, to add to the glamor of the campus court. A combination of blonde hair and blue eyes, Ruby is the pride of Beaumont, Tex. Displaying a fashionable air and a good taste for clothes, Ruby became Loyola's choice as a representative for Glamor magazine's best dressed coed contest last year. A philosophy major and a member of the Philosophy club, Ruby destines her future to the position to that of clinical physicologist.



Just a "view" of the lovely air that blows through Loyola's campus.

Joseph Bologona bestows the "Queen's" crown on Camille Tamborello, as Margaret Blades, past queen, looks on admiringly.

Congratulations!

The "court" backs the Pack for the Homecoming game.

How Lovely!

Lawrence Welk presents Queen Camille with a stein of his "bubbling champagne." Escorting Camille, Jerry Hoskins, student body president.

Frosh Sweetheart

She's intelligent too . . .

Chosen as the "dream gal" of every freshman guy, Kay Poole has had "Let Me Call You Sweetheart" sung into her pretty ear since her election in early December.

A petite, green-eyed brownette, Kay was also chosen sponsor of ROTC Company "D" and like every Louisiana lovely, possesses a store of southern charm.

The 5 ft. 3 in. Kay is a graduate of Ursuline Academy and is now following a pre-law course at Loyola.

A member of Lambda Sigma Lambda, service sorority, and the International Relations Club, she is very "career-minded at present," and hopes to work in the international diplomatic service after college.

A native of New Orleans, Kay is greatly interested in athletics, "especially basketball and the Wolfpack, of course." She also teaches informal dancing in the Ramblers, a teenage organization.

KAY POOLE

WE HAVE ROTC TOO!

BLUE KEY
21st ANNUAL TALENT NITE

Pretty Rosemary Falgoust, music freshman, sang her way to first place individual honors in Blue Key's 21st Annual Talent Nite with her rendition of "Italian Street Song."

Talent Nite was staged in the Fieldhouse for the first time early in December before a capacity crowd.

The Dixie Wolves, a Dixieland group, won first place in group competition with their version of "When The Saints Go Marching In."

SAK, social fraternity, took first honors in the skit division with a satirical ballet entitled "Western Movies."

The 1956 Talent Nite individual winner, Gerald Marshall, was a featured guest performer along with the group winners of 1956, the Mambo Kings.

Master of ceremonies . . .
Blue Key president, Patrick McGinity

Individual competition winners . . . from left, Max Thorton, second place; Rosemary Falgoust, first place; Joan Failla and Adrienne Adler, tied for third.

Guest performer—Gerald Marshall

Group winners—The Dixie Wolves

Beggars fraternity won the buildings decoration contest for their artwork on Cummings Hall.

Alpha Delta Gamma fraternity's "Merry Olds"

HOMECOMING '59

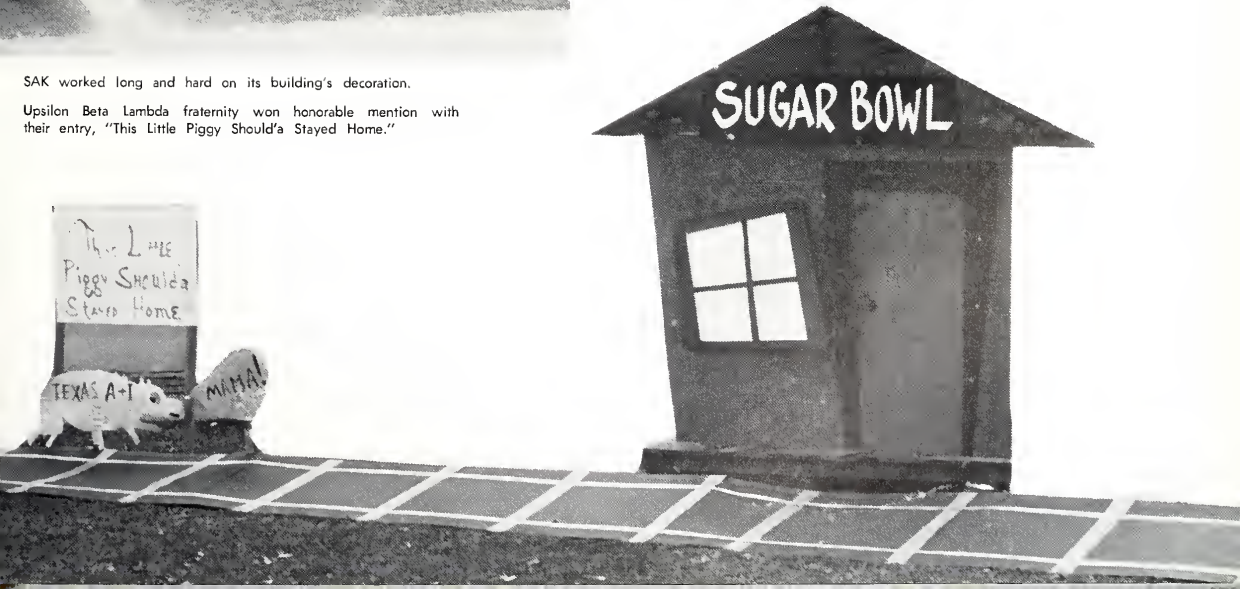
It was a great week for the alumni and the campus. The whole student body pitched in to make this the most successful Homecoming Loyola has ever known. Decorations abounded all over campus.

Sigma Alpha Kappa fraternity took first place honors in the motorcade division.

First place in the girls' division of the building decorations went to Beta Alpha Epsilon sorority for their "Hook the Javelinas."

SAK worked long and hard on its building's decoration.

Upsilon Beta Lambda fraternity won honorable mention with their entry, "This Little Piggy Should'a Stayed Home."



LOYOLA FORUM

The Loyola Forum brings to the university and to the populice of New Orleans famous speakers from all parts of the world and from all walks of life. Directed by the Rev. John A. Toomey, S.J., the Forum has been described as the "most painless educational movement ever introduced to Loyola."

Lawrence Welk, famous musician and TV entertainer, takes time out to discuss his Forum appearance with Father Toomey. Welk was featured on the first Forum which took place early December in the Fieldhouse.

Welk, the "Champagne Music-Maker," dances with a light-footed spectator to the Dixieland music of his fellow band members.

Bishop Fulton J. Sheen, world famous writer and orator, keeps his audience in rapt attention as he relates a moving message during his annual lecture in the Fieldhouse.

Bishop Sheen takes time out to discuss his appearance with two of his younger admirers. The Bishop is a favorite with both young and old alike. His annual visit on the Forum is looked forward to with great anxiety.

Major Alexander deSeversky, pioneer aeronautical designer and author, gave a very timely talk on "The Space Age" at a March Forum in the Fieldhouse.

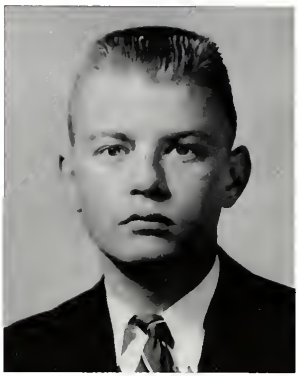
THE STUDENT COUNCIL . . .

JERRY HOSKINS, President



JERRY HOSKINS
President

Government is their business, and since 1926 the student council has carried on their business for the benefit of the students. Acting as the unified voice of the student body, the council regulates and coordinates student conduct and activity and acts as a liaison between the student and University's authorities. Among their many chores this year, the council planned and carried out an excellent orientation program and conducted all campus court and student council elections.

The student council's left flank, shown below as they take time out from their busy meeting to pose for The Wolf. Since the members generally sit in the same flank each meeting, competition arises as to which flank is more active in the discussions and activities of the council.

PAN HELLENIC COUNCIL

LARRY McNAMARA
President

The Pan-Hellenic Council, composed of the presidents of the four social fraternities, acts as a governing body with the authority to rule on all inter-fraternity matters. The council also acts on all matters of a university-fraternity nature by discovering and ruling on common problems and policies under the supervision of the moderator, The Rev. Robert L. The highest honor to which a Loyola coed can aspire is membership in Cardinal Key, national honor sorority. The sorority taps for membership only those coeds who exhibit special qualities of leadership, scholarship and personality, and who excel in service to the university and extracurricular participations.

Dedicated to the advancement of the cardinal virtues of prudence, justice, temperance and fortitude, Cardinal Key is not a mausoleum or resting place for past laurels. Very actively engaged in a city-wide high school recruiting program, the sorority sponsors an annual High School Day on campus.

THE PREFECTS

Development of the spiritual life of the student is an integral part of campus activity. In addition to the Christian atmosphere present in all scholastic and social undertakings, there is the University Sodality designed specifically to aid the student in bettering himself spiritually.

Comprising nine chapters, the University Sodality has a three-fold goal: sanctification of self; sanctification of one's neighbor; and defense of the church. This triple aim is achieved through the sponsorship of functions such as monthly Mass and Holy Communion, the Rosary during the months of October and May, Stations of the Cross during lent, and drives for the Ceylon Missions and the city's needy . . . with every member always striving for the cultivation of deep devotion, reverence and filial love for the Blessed Virgin Mary.

The 30 man United States Army Chorus came to Loyola in October to give a special concert for the students and faculty of the university.

The world famous group, under the direction of Captain Samuel Loboda, was in New Orleans to participate in International Week festivities October 12-18.

Each member of the group is a hand picked professional, accepted only after thorough auditions.

The group sang selections ranging from American folk songs to present-day show tunes.

SUMMER CAMP

Held at Fort Hood, Texas, the 1958 ROTC summer camp provided intensive field training for 1178 cadets from 28 colleges and universities in the Fourth Army area (Arkansas, Louisiana, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Texas). The six week period, June 23 to August 1, was devoted to practical training in the use of weapons and tactics to supplement the theoretical training the cadets received in the college classroom. Emphasis was placed on leadership training and cadets rotated in positions of authority every three days.

Loyola was represented by thirty-seven cadets, all of whom had completed at least three years of military science courses. One Loyola cadet, Leo R. McLean, received his commission as a second lieutenant the last day of camp.

Cadets were given instruction on all the weapons used by the modern Army. Demonstrations were given on everything from the Corporal missile shown on the left to the 45 cal. pistol.

Captain Szalwinski, a member of the summer camp weapons committee, supervises the firing of the mortars by cadets.

. . . and there was recreation too.

"Practice makes perfect," and cadets got a lot of that.

Methods of getting the cadets up in the morning were various. Company "F" used a "Hellcat Band!" Note the bright and cheerful expressions as the cadets render a stirring arrangement of reveille at 4 a.m.

THE MAROON
THE WOLF

The Wolf . . .

The Loyola Wolf, university yearbook, now in the 36th year of publication, this year has been placed under the jurisdiction of the journalism department and provides a new outlet for the creative genius of the journalism major. This year the book is edited by Lynne Verrett, A&S senior. Milton Alberstadt, a journalism senior, is the managing editor and he shares the headaches of supervising the Wolf with Lynne.

The book is supervised by Professor Edwin P. Fricke, chairman of the journalism department.

Editor-in-chief of the 1958-59 Wolf, Lynne Verrett, makes use of the many yearbooks from all over the country to aid her in better laying out this year's Wolf.

Managing editor, Milton Alberstadt, searches the air for a thought while compiling the membership lists of the various campus organizations.

The Board of Editors of the Wolf are from the left, Lynne Verrett, Ronald Barnes, Evelyn Komma, John Lopicollo and Milton Alberstadt. Missing from the picture, George Rhode. The board of editors has the task of making the final approval on all layouts, pictures and copy appearing in the Wolf.

Cartoons vs. photography is always a topic for an argument with Wolf cartoonist John Barrios and Wolf photographer John Lopicollo. The two Johns both claim that their medium is the only way to put over art.

For the first time in the history of the Wolf a board of editors, composed entirely of students, has been formed to issue final approval on copy, layouts and pictures that will be used in the book. The board of editors is under the supervision of Wolf moderator, Edwin P. Fricke.

The board of editors includes six outstanding students who are capable of recognizing good pictures, layouts and copy. They have had the difficult task of weeding from the thousands of pictures taken by the Wolf photographer and given by the various organizations the ones used in this year's Wolf.

The Wolf . . .

Sports editor, George Rhode, pauses a second from his job of selecting photographs for use in the sports section of the Wolf.

Special features editors, Evelyn Komma and Ronald Barnes, figure out the proper proportions of a picture which is being reduced for use in the Wolf.

The presentation of a yearbook would be useless unless pictures were used. In fact, the main purpose of any yearbook is to present as accurate a picture of campus life as possible. The job of selecting the pictures is the one which falls on the editors, who try to select the best available pictures so a more vivid showing of campus activity can be expressed. In addition to selecting pictures, the editors must write copy for each section and cutlines for each picture used.

Staff members, Gail Gritter and Nat Belloni, look through the vast Wolf files for suitable photographs to be used in the yearbook.

the MAROON

The Maroon, for the first time in many years, has undergone several changes. First the staff was divided into two—each with a complete editorial staff and a staff of reporters. Secondly the paper was trimmed down to a tabloid size in order to acquaint the journalism majors with the problems of tabloid makeup.

The split staff arrangement was organized to give each staff a chance to work on the Wolf during the week which their staff was not editing the Maroon.

Maroon editor-in-chief,
GAIL GRITTER

The editor of The Maroon has one event planned every Thursday afternoon—going to the printer to make final corrections on the paper. Gail Gritter, editor, helps Gene of Simmons Press with the final layout process.

The Maroon . . .

The Maroon, now in its 36th year of publication on the Loyola campus, is a little of everything: headaches, heartbreaks, worries, troubles, and fun. The Marooners try each week to bring a little news for everyone in the few pages they have to work with. Hard work goes into every paper but the crown of glory appears over the head of every staff member Friday morning when the Maroon is distributed on campus and especially when there is favorable comment about some part of it.

Cartoonist John Barrios shows how it's done on the blackboard. John began this year as Maroon artist with a bang with his work of the candle and lighthouse, remember?

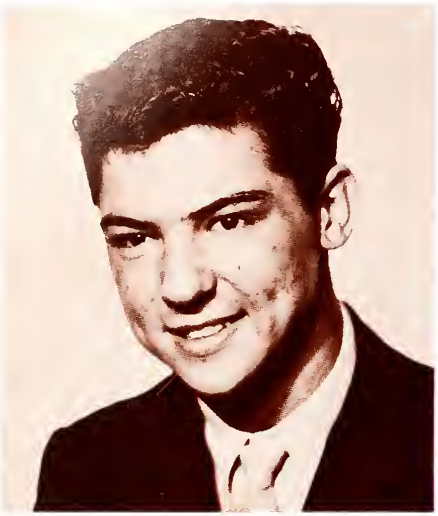
The Maroon and all those linked with it are proud of the outstanding job former staffers have made for themselves in the field of journalism. The paper itself has often in its history been acclaimed as one of the top college newspapers in the country and each student on campus should feel proud to have such an outstanding piece of journalistic craftsmanship at his disposal every school week.

Sports editors, Ronald Barnes, left, and George Rhode, right, look over the sports section of the Maroon before it is set in the press. The Maroon is proud of its sports section which carries stories on all phases of athletics on the Loyola campus. The Maroon sports editors were a small help in attaining such a fine intramural program that was inaugurated this year.

east four times. However, every week complaints come into he Maroon office about some misspelled name. Often mis-akes are passed over but not intentionally. However, everyone s not perfect.

The final stage in putting out the weekly Maroon, the Press. Former Editor Evelyn Komma stands by as Percy Brugea explains how the press operates. Komma edited the first four editions of the fall semester.

The Maroon . . .



Maroon editor-in-chief, NAT BELLONI.

The Maroon's editors face a long and tedious job every Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday night. Copy coming in from the reporters must be edited, re-written if necessary, given a headline and placed in the position it deserves on one of the pages of the Maroon.

Headaches often arise when not enough information is handed in and someone must find out the necessary information. At other times stories break late Wednesday night and the editor must wait in the Maroon office until the reporter comes in with the story.

By the time the editor gets home it is usually in the neighborhood of 11 P.M. This does not leave much time for studying or if the studying is done not much time for sleep because of those eight o'clock classes.

The editor, at work in the slot of the copy desk, controls the headline writers seated on the rim.

Athletic Director

THE Rev. James J. Molloy, S.J., athletic director for Loyola's Wolfpack athletic teams, has one of the toughest jobs on the campus.

He oversees the extensive varsity and intramural program of the university—a program which includes such varsity sports as basketball, baseball, track, tennis and golf. He helps coordinate a vast intramural program for both men and coed students.

And the genial Jesuit also has the tough assignment of schedule-making.

Through the past several years, Father Molloy has brought in to New Orleans some of the best basketball teams in the nation—teams like LaSalle, Illinois, Dayton and others.

The Varsity Cage Coach . . .

HANK KUZMA

Young Hank Kuzma, one of many top flight cagers at Duquesne University several years ago, has just ended his first season at the helm of the Loyola Wolfpack.

This past September he succeeded Coach Jim Harding who resigned to go into private business.

Coach Kuzma came to Loyola from Steubenville (Pa.) College where he lost only one game last year. Not only was he voted the top small college coach of the year, but he won the head coaching job at Loyola as well.

Followers of the Wolfpack believe that Coach Kuzma is a top coach, onė who will bring Loyola to the very top of the collegiate ladder.

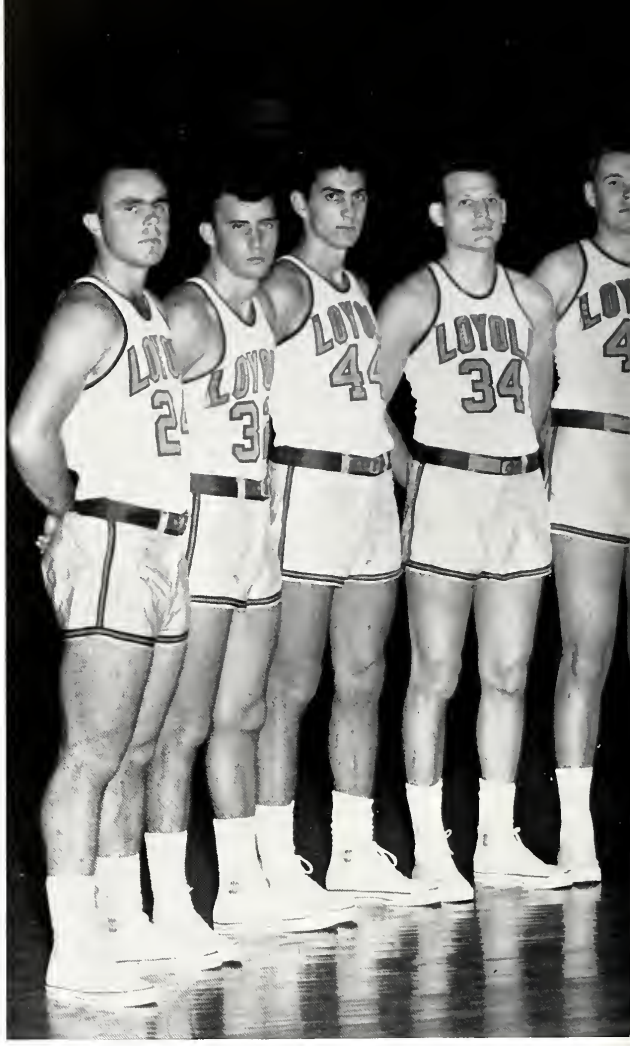
THE VARSITY WOLFPACK 1958-59



Basketball is the major sport for the Loyola Wolfpack and for the past 10 years the Pack has played a major schedule. Last year the Wolves competed in the Sugar Bowl for the second time; this year's trip of course, was the third. Loyola's selection for the Sugar Bowl, which is played in the Wolves' cavernous Fieldhouse, is a glowing tribute to the prowess of the Wolfpack.

Coach of the Loyola Wolfpack is Hank Kuzma, who guided the Wolves during his initial year in the so-called "big-time" of basketball.

An ambitious mentor, Kuzma guided the Wolves through one of its toughest seasons—teams such as TCU, LSU, Oklahoma City, Houston, Memphis State and others.

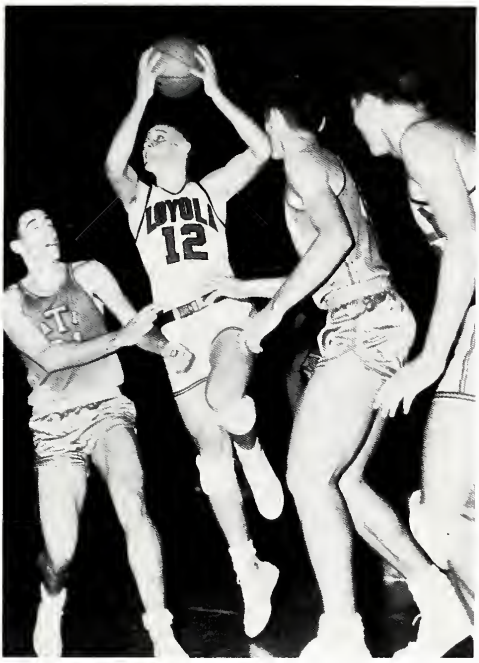
The Senior Wolves . . .

Robert McLaughlin, Karl Vogt and Chester Doll

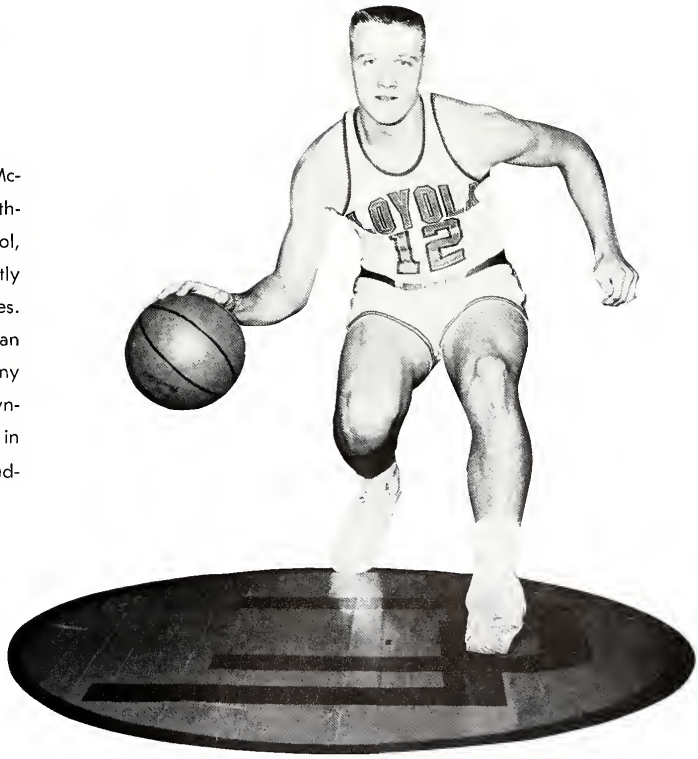
The past year marked the end of their collegiate careers for McLaughlin, Vogt and Doll. The trio of seniors got their first taste of university basketball under former Pack mentor, Jim McCafferty, spent their middle years under the tutelage of James Harding, and played their final season under Hank Kuzma. McLaughlin, from New Albany, Indiana, is the only out-of-towner; Doll and Vogt are both products of the New Orleans prep league, the former from Holy Cross High and the latter from Nicholls.

BOB McLAUGHLIN



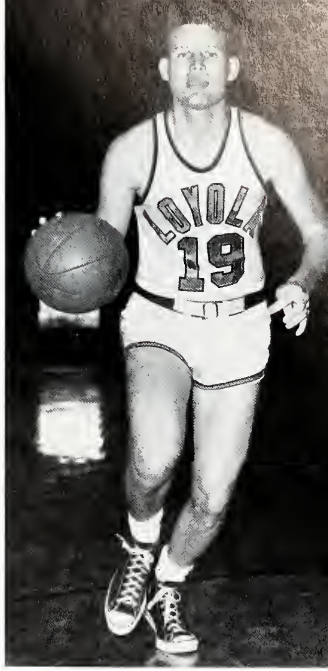
No. 12 in Action

A 6'2" guard from New Albany, Indiana, Bob McLaughlin proved himself one of the finest student athletes ever to compete for Loyola. Noted for his cool, calculated court presence, McLaughlin consistently posted double figures after his name in the box scores. Off the court he was equally capable, maintaining an enviable scholastic average while taking part in many extracurricular activities. What was perhaps his crowning achievement was his conquest of student politics in being named president of the college of business administration.



CHESTER DOLL

Standing 6'-5" in his stocking feet, Chester Doll ended his Loyola career as one of the most improved players ever to represent the University. A graduate of Holy Cross High School, Doll entered Loyola in 1952, and got in one year of frosh competition prior to entering the military service. An exceptionally good play-maker, Doll pointed to the "hook" as his best offensive weapon. Deadly from anywhere near the foul line, the tall center dropped in the "important" points in many close contests.



A product of the New Orleans prep league, Karl Vogt gained his high school experience at Francis T. Nicholls, during a four year tenure rewrote numerous basketball record books. He was considered one of the finest prospects in years, and his days at Loyola bore out this conviction. A nerveless ballplayer, Vogt possessed an unerring accuracy from out that befuddled the opposition. Not particularly tall at 6'3", Vogt used his height to the utmost in figuring in on numerous rebounds and assists.

THE WOLFPACK competed in the 1958 Sugar Bowl cage tournament in the Loyola Fieldhouse, but Coach Hank Kuzma's Wolves dropped a pair of close contests.

In the opening game, Loyola bowed to Memphis State in a thriller, 73-71. The next night the Wolves came back to battle tall Maryland to a standstill before losing out, 54-50.

Loyola's Bob McLaughlin, senior guard, made the all-tournament team. He was one of the better players in the tournament.

COACH LOU "RAGS" SCHEUERMANN . . . called his diamondmen out for their first drills of the year during frosty January.

BASEBALL—1959

Although there were five stars missing when "Rags" Scheuermann checked in his baseballers for the 1959 season, the talented mentor still predicted another successful season. Gone were pitchers Lee Ray Mire and Lloyd Pollet; infielders Marco Tuminello and Ronnie Abel; and outfielder John "Boogie" Murrett.

"Rags" pointed to a pair of his stalwarts, Butler Powell and Tom Schwaner, and classed them with the top talent in college circles. Powell handled the catching chores while Schwaner worked at shortstop.

A tough 22-game schedule faced the pack, headed by such squads as Oklahoma U., Navy, Northwestern and Wheaton of Illinois.

"Rags" boasted the strongest "middle" he has had since assuming coaching duties at Loyola. With Powell behind the plate, Schwaner at short and Sheldon Gebbs in center field, "Rags" had the nucleus of his squad.

William Roper copped the "most outstanding competitor" award as he paced his team, the Dents, to an overwhelming victory in the intramural track meet.

Roper won first place in the 150-yard sprint and placed in the 75 yard dash. He was also a member of the winning 440 and 1400 yard relay team.

The Dents scored a total of 36 and 5/6 points to defeat the Shysters who scored 19 and ⅓ points for second place.

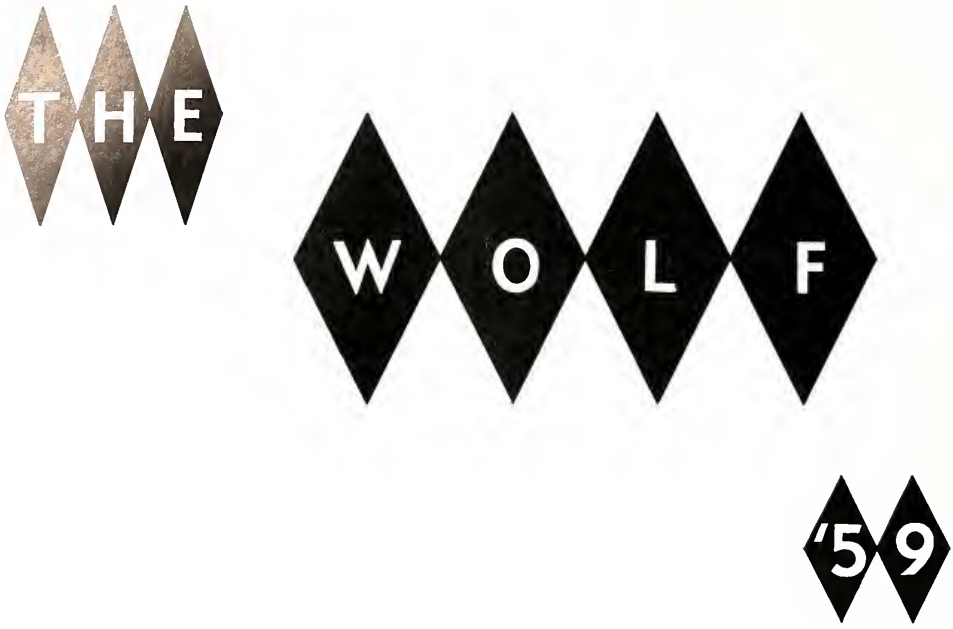
THE CHEERLEADERS AT LOYOLA U.

With a Whoop n' a Holler and a good deal of exercise, this peppy trio leads the cheers at Wolfpack basketball games. Whether the Pack is trailing or trampling, their spirited efforts never fail to enliven the crowd and boost team morale when the going gets rough.

Cheerleaders Mary Saunders, John McLeod, and Pat Finn spur the spirit.



Well, this is it—the 1959 Wolf yearbook. The editors and staff certainly hope that you enjoyed looking it over. It has been quite a year for us, too!

This yearbook represents a year of hard work and it is something which you should keep as a memento of your 1958-59 year at Loyola University.

Years from now you'll sit back in the living room, talk with old friends . . . friends, perhaps, that you met at Loyola. And out will come your Wolf . . . the Wolf of '59.

You'll laugh at your "old" buddies . . . laugh at the "antique" fashions . . . remember some campus beauty . . . or leader . . . and you'll enjoy the Wolf once again.

This is the first time that the Wolf has been compiled and edited under the supervision of the department of journalism . . . we hope you like it.
